A. VIDEOTAPING OF BOARD MEETING: Chairman Badillo stated that as usual CUNY-TV is transmitting tonight’s meeting of the Board of Trustees live so that the proceedings are available to the public.

B. CONDOLENCES: Chairman Badillo stated that we begin this meeting on a note of sadness. Ed Rogowsky, who introduced our Board meetings on CUNY-TV, passed away last week. We at CUNY have lost a good friend and dedicated teacher. On behalf of the Board of Trustees and the Administration, I offer condolences to the members of Ed’s family who are with us today, his partner Peter McGarry, his sons, Mark and Joshua, his grandson Max Spencer, his daughter-in-law Michelle and his former wife, Leslie. In recognition of Ed’s many years of involvement in CUNY, Chancellor Goldstein and I recommend to the Board the following resolution that is sponsored by Trustee Alfred Curtis and Trustee Nilda Soto Ruiz.

At this point Trustee Mastro joined the meeting.

The calendar items were considered in the following order:

Upon motions duly made, seconded and carried, the following resolution was adopted: (Calendar No. 6)

NO. 6. THE CITY UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK – RENAMING THE CUNY INTERNSHIP PROGRAM IN GOVERNMENT AND PUBLIC AFFAIRS AS THE EDWARD T. ROGWOSKY INTERNSHIP PROGRAM IN GOVERNMENT AND PUBLIC AFFAIRS OF THE CITY UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK:

RESOLVED, That the Board of Trustees of The City University of New York approve the renaming of the CUNY Internship Program in Government and Public Affairs as the Edward T. Rogowsky Internship Program in Government and Public Affairs of The City University of New York, effective immediately.

EXPLANATION: Edward T. Rogowsky dedicated his thirty-three year professional career to serving the needs of CUNY students, a decade of which was as director of the CUNY Internship Program in Government and Public Affairs. He had been an active and vital part of the CUNY Internship Program in Government and Public Affairs since its inception in 1968, serving for many years as Campus Faculty Coordinator. Many generations of students benefited from his leadership.

Professor Rogowsky provided strong academic mentoring and devotion to CUNY students. Hundreds of alumni of the CUNY Internship Program in Government and Public Affairs have served in the New York State Legislature and in important policy-making positions in federal, state, and city governments and community agencies.

An alumnus of Brooklyn College, he was Professor Emeritus of Political Science/Urban Studies at his alma mater and former director of the Brooklyn College Graduate Center for Worker Education. He believed passionately in education for the public interest. Professor Rogowsky set an example of civic service as a distinguished member of the New York City Planning Commission, to which he was appointed by Brooklyn Borough President Howard Golden in 1990. He incorporated his civic and political experience into his teaching of students. He served as City Editor for CUNY-TV and host of MetroView, where he demonstrated his passion for good government and informed public policy. In 1997, Professor Rogowsky helped to found and direct the Model New York State Senate Project, to give CUNY students first-hand experience in the legislative process, for which he was honored by the New York State Assembly. In light of his enduring interest in and support of education, and his numerous contributions to the mission of The City University of New York, it is fitting that in his memory the CUNY Internship Program in Government and Public Affairs be named the Edward T. Rogowsky Internship Program in Government and Public Affairs of The City University of New York.

There will be in the near future a formal occasion to publicize the naming of the program in honor of Professor Rogowsky.

C. TRUSTEE HONORS: Chairman Badillo stated that he is delighted to announce that Trustee Kay Pesile has been selected by the Board of Directors of the National Ethnic Coalition of Organizations as a 2001 Ellis Island Medal of Honor recipient. The medal, in recognition of Trustee Pesile’s exceptional humanitarian efforts and outstanding contributions to the country, will be presented at a special ceremony on Ellis Island on Saturday, May 12. Congratulations to Trustee Pesile.

D. PRESIDENTS AND FACULTY HONORS: Chairman Badillo called on Trustee Curtis, who announced the following:

President Gail Mellow was elected to serve on the Board of Trustees of the National Commission for Corporate Education. The Commission is dedicated to the advancement of quality college cooperative education programs, and has provided national leadership to encourage program quality and standards of excellence.

Congratulations to President Antonio Perez for his successful efforts in having the Silicon Summit II on the Current and Future State of the High-Tech Industry take place at Borough of Manhattan Community College on March 11, 2001. G. ORAL REPORT OF THE CHANCELLOR: Chancellor Goldstein reported the following:

1. Budget deliberations continue at the State level, although the statutory deadline of March 10 for agreement on available revenues has passed. The Assembly and the Senate have come forward with their proposed budget resolutions.

The Assembly bill adds about $23 million for senior colleges and another $17 million for community colleges, for a total of over $40 million over which is recommended in the Governor’s Executive Budget proposal, in addition to another $13 million in capital appropriations. This version proposes substantial increases in faculty lines of about $10 million, a $175 increase in community base aid, increases in student financial aid and doctoral student support, significant funding for economic development projects involving CUNY, capital assistance and capital assistance to Medger Evers College, and restorations to SEEK and College Discovery.

The Senate version restores faculty lines cut in the Executive Budget from the community colleges, and provides no increases in faculty at the senior colleges. Substantial increases in child care support are proposed along with a $25 increase in community college base aid. There are reductions proposed in adjunct funding and freshman year support.

Conference committees will soon be designated between the Assembly and the Senate to reconcile the proposals within agreed upon available revenues. We will continue to work with both houses and the Office of the Governor, which retains veto authority over any such agreement.

Thanks to Trustees Alfred Curtis, Wellington Chen, Kenneth Cook, George Rios, Bernard Sohmer, and Michael Anglin, who participated in the March 12–13, visit to Albany. Thanks also the College presidents represented by Presidents Frances Horowitz, Gerald Lynch, Ricardo Fernandez, Dolores Fernandez, Marlene Springer, Byron McClennen and Gail Mellow, and to members of the Chancellery, including Executive Vice Chancellor Louise Mirrer, Vice Chancellors Jay Hershenson, Sherry Brabham, Frederick Schaeffer, Emma Macari and Otis Hill, along with Board Secretary Genevieve Mullin and her executive assistant, Ms. Hourig Messerlian. The legislative reception was probably the best attended of any this year. Meetings were held with individual legislators, and many influential members and representatives of the Governor’s office attended as well.

2. On the City budget side, at the last Board meeting I reported on the PEG reductions proposed for this University and other City agencies. I testified among a group of organizations that included the City Council Higher Education Committee on March 15, and the Borough Presidents’ on March 1. Council Speaker Peter Vallone and Councilwoman Helen Marshall have designated March 28, as CUNY Day and have asked the City Council to issue a proclamation to that effect.

We thank the College presidents around the table for the excellent work done on arrangements for borough breakfasts and meetings with legislators: President Marlene Springer for Staten Island, President Gerry Lynch for Manhattan, President Christoph Kimmich for the Brooklyn breakfast at Juniors, where we were joined by Trustees Kenneth Cook, Alfred Curtis, John Morning, and Jeff Wiesenfeld, and Interim President Russell Hotzler for the meeting held at Queens Borough Hall. The Bronx borough meeting is scheduled for early April.

3. Last week I was in Washington to follow up on a number of meetings that we had done before with members of the Congressional delegation seeking funding for the teacher empowerment zone. We also had meetings with Senators Schumer and Clinton. We have now met with most of the Congressional delegation in New York City and have been given a green light that there is going to be deep and unbridled support for many of the items that we are seeking under this very ambitious project.

4. We are all very excited about the data coming out of the 2000 census. There is a major shift of demography and total population in our five boroughs that we anticipated and we are producing the wonderful brochure, “Study With The Best,” in Spanish, French, Chinese, Korean and Russian. So we are getting deep into the communities and trying to engage as many people as we can about the excitement of this great University.

5. We have had a series of CUNY information fairs and they have been enormously successful. On March 3, we were at Co-Op City in The Bronx, and on March 18, at York College in Jamaica. On April 28, Assemblyman Brian McLaughlin and Councilwoman Helen Marshall will co-sponsor the event at Flushing High School. On May 5, Assemblyman Ed Sullivan will co-sponsor the event in Manhattan, and on May 19, Senator Guy Velella will co-sponsor the event at Lehman High School in The Bronx.

6. For the first time in the history of this University, in part because the technology was not available, the first CUNY web contest will be launched. High school students and the public at large will be encouraged to visit the CUNY web site and all college links and take part in a quiz about CUNY’s college programs and history. The New York Times has donated one hundred one-year subscriptions, and winners will be eligible for passes to concerts and other shows at CUNY’s Performing Arts Centers.

NO. 7. COMMITTEE ON FACULTY, STAFF, AND ADMINISTRATION:

Report of Committee Chairman Curtis
The scheduled meeting of the Committee on Faculty, Staff and Administration was cancelled due to severe weather conditions. As such, there are no policy items to report at this time. I would, however, like to make the Board aware of a matter pertaining to the Executive Compensation Plan.

As you may recall, back in February of last year, the Board of Trustees’ approved a new executive compensation salary plan, which became effective in May 2000. Under the terms of the approved plan, the University’s Executive Compensation Plan Salary ranges were to be periodically adjusted in accordance with any increases provided by the State for its management confidential employees. The State implemented such an increase for its management confidential employees in the amount of 3% last April. Under our plan, the same amount, 3%, is to be applied to adjust CUNY salary ranges.

The University deferred implementation of the 3% increase last April because we were in the process of implementing the revised Executive Compensation Plan. In order to maintain the competitiveness of CUNY’s salary, it is appropriate to apply the 3% range adjustment at this time. Only the maximum salary of the range will be adjusted and no employees will receive salary increases as a result of this adjustment to the salary range.
The report was unanimously approved.

NO. 8.  COMMITTEE ON COMMUNITY COLLEGES:

Chairman Badillo stated that last year he established a Committee on Community Colleges, which we never had before, and that Committee was headed by Trustee Nilda Soto Ruiz. You now have, less than a year later, a complete report of this Committee, which is going to be a permanent committee. I want to thank Trustee Ruiz for all the work she has done, and I would like her now to summarize the report for the benefit of the Trustees.

Report of Committee Chairperson Ruiz

Mr. Chairman, let me begin by thanking you for establishing the Committee and thanking Trustee Cook, Vice Chair of the Committee, and Trustees Morning, Pesile, and Biswas, who represented the students and is a former trustee, President Perez, and Professors Richter and Sandrow who served on the committee. Chancellor Goldstein and Executive Vice Chancellor Mirrer also deserve thanks because they attended the sessions and they made staff available to us, in particular Judy Watson who helped us assemble the report. All the community college presidents participated and spoke about the missions of their colleges, so thanks are due to them.

The charge was given the end of last February. We held seven productive meetings and a year later we have a report. Our charge was to review the missions and the role of the community colleges in the University and in a flagship environment, and to look at the balance of their offerings. Let me make sure that everyone knows that we are speaking about 53,000 students enrolled in associate programs, 10,000 in non-degree programs, and 88,000 in continuing ed programs within our six community colleges. That represents a lot of students.

We have made over fifty recommendations for your review. They are to be used for deliberations by the Chancellor and the staff to set priorities and, indeed, this will be a work in progress. There is no budget attached to the recommendations because first we should consider our existing funding and then if we need additional funding ask for it. I think it is only prudent that we look at what we have to spend and then look at what we need, and I think that my fellow Trustees will agree. The plan and the report also support the Master Plan. There is no disagreement that we need additional full time faculty, which indeed, has been a hue and cry from the University Trustees and from the faculty for a long time and I think we support that.

It is very important that we look at the community colleges in light of the economy and in light of the role that they can play as an economic engine so to speak. The State and the nation are looking at community colleges this way.

We had many discussions regarding the areas of developing a range of traditional and non-traditional offerings to keep pace with the rapidly developing technology and population shifts. We suggest that there be new support services for our students to make sure that they have different learning options and they indeed fulfill their goals in coming to the community colleges.

We looked at class scheduling and at accommodating students, non-traditional students, weekend programs, evening programs and the like, and even recommending different cycles. We looked at revamping developmental education to accommodate different learning styles and languages and to speed up the pace at which we give our offerings. We looked at targeting training for the New York City employers and the workers, so that they could remain competitive in our City, and at also recommending building a system of accountability focusing on our student outcomes.

One of the major recommendations is that we gather market information and look at the demographic data and that we do this regularly to inform the campus reviews of academic and continuing education offerings. We have to work very closely with businesses and with our communities to make sure we are current. Do some of our colleges do this? Yes. But as a policy we recommend that we do it regularly and with great rigor.

We recommend that we look at re-deploying and deploying resources to encourage the community colleges to develop new credit and non-credit programs.
We looked at establishing performance indicators focused on student outcomes, tracking the retention of students, graduation rates, and looking at this data, paying attention to race, gender and English language proficiency. That we do follow-ups on post-college, do they attend our senior colleges, do they go on to other education, do they go on to employment. How successful have we been?

We have on our books transfer and articulation policies between the community colleges and senior colleges and yet we have to strengthen those issues and make sure that they are implemented.

Strengthen and expand programs with the Board of Education. We discussed at length the recruitment of students. We had very aggressive campaigns last year and we suggest that we continue those campaigns and enhance them and build upon some of the programs with the Board of Education. That we develop performance data for developmental programs and we develop alternatives for the students who are least prepared to do college level work. On the other hand, we also looked at developing programs of excellence within this flagship environment and where the community colleges do participate and should participate.

In short, we have looked at the offerings and we have tried to build on the strengths of the community colleges. We look at making them more progressive sometimes in their thinking and the bottom line for the report and for us is to work together on building upon the strengths, building access, and servicing our students appropriately.

In submitting this report we welcome the comments of the Trustees and certainly we look forward to working with the Chancellor and his staff on setting the priorities and looking at what we need in order to implement and certainly in making our community colleges the premier institutions that they should be.
