Chairperson Schmidt stated that he would like to warmly congratulate Vice Chairperson Philip Berry on his reappointment to this Board by Governor Patterson and his confirmation by the New York State Senate. Philip Berry is a great example of the many ways in which Trustees of this Board devote themselves to the advancement of our University.

Chairperson Schmidt stated that he would like to thank again our Vice Chairperson Philip Berry as well as Trustees Hugo Morales, Rita DiMartino and Cory Provost for participating along with the chancellery, presidents, students and faculty in a very well attended CUNY luncheon on February 13th held in Albany during the Black, Puerto Rican, Hispanic and Asian Legislative Caucus Conference weekend. E. ORAL REPORT OF THE CHANCELLOR: Chancellor Goldstein presented the following report:

Mr. Chairman, I would like to echo your congratulations to Vice Chair Berry on his reappointment. It is wonderful to have you continuing in that important role, Philip.

Let me very briefly go through some enrollment numbers. The preliminary reports from our colleges indicate that enrollment for the spring 2010 semester will exceed 258,000 students, the highest number ever for a spring semester since we have been capturing those data. In addition, applicants for both freshmen and transfer admission for the fall 2010 semester continue to surpass last year’s record pace. The number of transfer applications at this point in the cycle has more than doubled compared with a similar point last year. This increase appears to be coming both from students wishing to move within CUNY—which is so fundamental to our theme of the integrated University—as well as from students currently studying at colleges outside of the University.

Mr. Chairman, I have indicated to the Board on several occasions that we welcome the enrollment increases that are due largely, I would say, to the burnishing of the University’s reputation among colleges and universities, and also because of the very poor economy in which people are looking to come to the University to shore up their skills to be able to compete more effectively in a very difficult workforce. Having said that, we continue to be concerned that with this very large increase of students knocking on our door that we are able to maintain the level of academic experience that our students deserve to receive. As a result, we are monitoring our campus activities very closely.

I have asked Allan Dobrin, our Executive Vice Chancellor and Chief Operating Officer, along with Alexandra Logue, our Executive Vice Chancellor and University Provost, to work with each of our college presidents to really drill down deep into the bedrock of decisions that are being made not only on enrollment but also on hiring patterns to ensure that this university continues to be able to discharge its responsibilities but at the same time is very careful with respect to the fiduciary responsibilities that we have for managing our financial affairs as a result of the very large uptick in enrollment. We want to ensure that we make this university available for students who wish to learn, but at the same time we do not want to dilute the experience that our students have because we have worked so mightily to try to build up the value of the degree that a student receives when they leave the institution. It is a delicate task that we have, but one that we continue to take very seriously.

With respect to the state budget, I have talked to you in some detail about the governor's budget. That budget has now been remanded to the state legislature for consideration, and obviously we are working very closely with the leadership of both houses and all of the other members of the state legislature. Just recently, Governor Paterson announced that the state must address an additional $750 million deficit through the end of FY 2011, due to further revenue erosion. Overall, the projected deficit that the state must address through the end of 2011 now totals approximately $8.2 billion, up from $7.4 billion at the time that the Executive Budget was released. Through the 21-day amendment process the governor proposed closing this additional $750 million deficit through the identification of new resources to be generated mostly through federal fiscal relief and a variety of increased and new revenue sources. None of these additional savings measures, I am pleased to report, will have a significant impact on the University.

The next several weeks are going to be critically important. Let me just go through the timeline very briefly. On March 1 revenue agreement is required, and if there cannot be an agreement between the two houses of the legislature the state comptroller needs to break the deadlock. On March 15 the dollars available for appropriation and distribution are to be determined, and on March 31 the state budget deadline awaits us. One possible scenario is that there will not be a budget, and I think that has pretty high probability at this particular point. Another possible scenario is that there could be protracted negotiations, taking us well into the latter part of the spring and into the summer. Or, there could be a two-way agreement. We will wait to see. Obviously we are deeply meshed in all of those discussions and hopefully this will be resolved so that we can have a much clearer lens on the amount of dollars that we will have to spend at the University.

On the city side, Mayor Bloomberg issued his FY2011 Preliminary Budget on January 28. The plan proposes reductions to CUNY of $9.5 million in FY2010, which represents a 4% cut and $15.4 million next year, representing an 8% cut. For the current-year reductions, the University will mitigate the impact on the community colleges to the extent that we can through the use of centrally-managed accounts and reserves, and I have assured this Board that we have managed our financial affairs very conservatively, insuring that we do have reserves in place for times just like this. We will continue our dialogue with both the mayor's office and the city council regarding the impact of these proposed budget reductions on our community colleges.

On March 5, there will be a New York City Council Higher Education Hearing on the city preliminary budget. I have asked Interim Senior Vice Chancellor Marc Shaw to lead the panel representing CUNY in that effort. I also would like to thank all those who attended the welcome reception for the new and continuing members of the New York City Council Higher Education Committee. We welcomed the new chair Ydanis Rodriguez at that event. He spoke, Mr.
Chairman, from the heart and talked to us about his experiences growing up in the Dominican Republic, his experiences coming here to the United States, and his time at City College. He is a graduate of City College, where he studied political science. We were very pleased to welcome that group of members of the city council.

There will be a joint hearing of the New York City Council Higher Education Committee and the Committee on Civil Rights regarding diversity among CUNY's instructional staff. That will take place on Wednesday, February 24. I have asked Vice Chancellor Ginger Waters to lead the panel for CUNY, which will also include Presidents Marcia Keizs, Eduardo Martí, Ricardo Fernández and Bill Kelly.

Tomorrow Chairman Schmidt and I will be meeting with the leadership of the Gates Foundation, along with Senior University Dean John Mogulescu and his staff, regarding the new community college initiative and ASAP. The Gates Foundation, as all of you know from other reports that I have made to this body, is deeply supportive of our renewed interest and focused on student success. The Gates Foundation and CUNY are very much in parallel here to the extent that our focus really is that when students arrive at CUNY they are ready to do collegiate-level work. Once they are here we want to do everything in our power to insure that they leave with a degree because, as I have said and I believe all of you agree, a degree matters. That is the focus of the Gates Foundation and it is certainly the focus of this university as well.
The planning for the new community college continues to make wonderful progress. The initiative continues to receive local and national attention and it has been awarded planning grants from several prestigious foundations and has the strong support of Mayor Bloomberg. The planning team is set to begin working on the development of proposed majors with participation from faculty and staff across the University. In addition, I have asked Executive Vice Chancellor and University Provost for Academic Affairs Alexandra Logue and Senior University Dean John Mogulescu to chair a committee to identify the founding president of that college.

I would like to thank President Regina Peruggi for her initial work as the Chair of the Haiti Relief Task Force. She has met with representatives from UNESCO and has communicated directly with Haitian university officials. I expect to receive preliminary recommendations from the task force soon, and hopefully we can do something important here, especially if we can ratchet up our efforts and get other colleges and universities in the United States to follow our lead.

I would also like to commend President William Pollard on agreeing to co-chair the New York City Haitian Community Hope and Healing Fund Advisory Committee. The fund, established by the Brooklyn Community Foundation and the United Way of New York City, aims to help address the short and long-term needs of individuals, families and communities in the New York City area affected by the earthquake in Haiti.

As Chairman Schmidt indicated, I have asked the Board to go into Executive Session on an important personnel matter regarding a new president at Baruch College, and then we will reconvene.

Statement of University Faculty Senate Chair Manfred Philipp:
I would like the Board to know that the chair of the City Council Committee Ydanis Rodriguez was our guest at the University Faculty Senate plenary and he gave an impassioned speech for CUNY and for Diversity Among CUNY’s Instructional Staff.

In response to a question from Trustee Charles A. Shorter, Chancellor Goldstein responded that CUNY has about twelve or thirteen committees dealing with issues of governance, curriculum, and partnerships with businesses. There is a huge effort going on dealing with well over a hundred people, largely faculty, from across the University but administrators as well. It is a very deep effort across the University.

Chairperson Schmidt stated that he would just like to add that at the conclusion of our meeting with the leadership of the Gates Foundation the group is going to LaGuardia to spend the morning, have lunch, meet students, meet faculty and it is really a great thing to see an enterprise as important as the Gates Foundation focusing its attention on community colleges and the tremendously important role they play. CUNY has a wonderful opportunity for leadership in the design of the new community college because some of the new programs here that Senior University Dean John Mogulescu and his colleagues have put in place, such as ASAP, are showing a better than doubling of graduation rates. I mean these represent opportunities for a massive improvement in the lives of our students and could have immense national implications if CUNY can be a national model for such dramatic improvement. These are really very exciting things that are happening here and it is great to see them get the recognition that they deserve from the people at the Gates Foundation who are focused on this issue nationally and see us, I think, as real leaders. Congratulations to everybody who has been involved in the new community college planning work and in the new programs like ASAP and all the work that is going on at all the community colleges to figure out how we can dramatically improve success rates. It is a wonderful thing.

Upon motions duly made, seconded and carried, the following resolutions were adopted: (Calendar Nos. 1 through 7)

NO. 1. CHANCELLOR’S UNIVERSITY REPORT: RESOLVED, That the Chancellor’s University Report for January 25, 2010 (including Addendum and Errata Items) be approved:

NO. 2. APPROVAL OF MINUTES: RESOLVED, That the minutes of the regular Board meeting and Executive Session of January 25, 2010 be approved.
NO. 3. COMMITTEE ON FISCAL AFFAIRS: RESOLVED, That the following item be approved:

A. THE CITY UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK – AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE:

RESOLVED, That the Board of Trustees of The City University of New York authorize the General Counsel to execute a contract on behalf of the Office of the University Controller to enter into a contract with a vendor who will provide vehicle liability insurance. The contract shall be awarded to the lowest responsive and responsible bidder after public advertisement and sealed bidding by the Office of the University Controller pursuant to law and University regulations. Such purchase shall not exceed a total estimated cost of $1,469,400, for the initial one year term, chargeable to the appropriate colleges’ FAS Codes, during the applicable fiscal years. The contract term shall include up to four one-year options for the University to renew in its best interest. The contract shall be subject to approval as to form by the University Office of General Counsel.

EXPLANATION: This contract will provide a single automobile insurance policy to cover all the vehicles owned and operated by both senior and community colleges.

Report of Fiscal Affairs Committee Chair Joseph J. Lhota:
Following the approval of the action item by the committee, Associate Vice Chancellor Matthew Sapienza reported on the 2011 State Executive Budget and the New York City financial plan. In addition, Chief Investment Officer Janet Krone and Cambridge Associates gave an update on the market and on CUNY’s investment portfolio. Following that presentation, University Controller Barry Kaufman introduced representatives of the independent audit firm of KPMG who reported on the University’s 2009 financial statements.

NO. 4. COMMITTEE ON ACADEMIC POLICY, PROGRAMS AND RESEARCH: RESOLVED, That the following items be approved:

A. QUEENS COLLEGE – THREE M.S. PROGRAMS IN RISK MANAGEMENT:

RESOLVED, That the three programs in Risk Management: Risk Management/Accounting; Risk Management/Finance; and Risk Management/Dynamic Financial Analysis Modeling, all leading to the Master of Science degree to be offered at Queens College be approved, effective March 1, 2010, subject to financial ability.

EXPLANATION: The three programs in Risk Management are designed to meet industry needs for better-prepared professionals who work in a risk management capacity, both as dedicated risk management professionals and in areas such as accounting and information technology that play vital roles in an organization’s risk management processes. Students will also be provided the opportunity to prepare for a variety of professional certifications, including Certified Public Accountant (CPA) and Chartered Financial Analyst (CFA), as well as a variety of risk management certifications awarded by such organizations as the Risk and Insurance Management Society (RIMS), the Society of Actuaries (SOA), the Casualty Actuary Society (CAS), the Professional Risk Managers’ International Association (PRIMA), and the Global Association of Risk Professionals (GARP). Queens College is well positioned to offer graduate programs in risk management. The programs draw upon existing strengths in the Departments of Economics; Accounting and Information Systems; Computer Science; and Mathematics. The programs are presented in a single document because the general focus of the proposed programs is the same, and because a substantial portion of the curriculum is shared and because the faculty resources and budget overlap. However, the three programs have separate curricula and admission requirements and will be separately registered by the State Education Department. In addition, graduates will want the separate specific degree titles listed on their diplomas.

B. BARUCH COLLEGE – B.A. IN BIOLOGICAL SCIENCES:

RESOLVED, That the program in Biological Sciences leading to the Bachelor of Arts to be offered at Baruch College be approved, effective March 1, 2010, subject to financial ability.

EXPLANATION: At the present time, students at Baruch who are interested in science-related careers either have to combine courses in biology with courses in another area such as chemistry, psychology, and philosophy under the rubric of the College’s registered BA program in Arts and Sciences ad hoc Major or transfer to another college to achieve their career goals. Thus, the College is proposing to offer a formal major in Biological Sciences. The program is intended to serve students with educational and career objectives in health care as well as students planning to enter graduate programs in biological sciences such as molecular and cellular biology, organismal and evolutionary biology, environmental biology, and conservation biology.

The proposed program builds on the strengths of the existing Department of Natural Sciences and no new full-time faculty are needed to launch the program. The demand for this program stems from strong student interest in science, student participation in research, and the numbers of students who have taken science courses at Baruch and attained their professional goals and career objectives in health care, biological research, and education. Following the recent establishment of research laboratories at the College, three students have received the Jonas Salk Award.

C. BOROUGH OF MANHATTAN COMMUNITY COLLEGE – A.S. IN BIOTECHNOLOGY:

RESOLVED, That the program in Biotechnology leading to the Associate in Science degree to be offered at Borough of Manhattan Community College (BMCC) be approved, effective March 1, 2010, subject to financial ability.

EXPLANATION: The proposed program is designed to provide students with the first two years of science education, enabling them to graduate with an AS degree in Biotechnology at BMCC as preparation for transfer into upper-division four-year programs in Biotechnology or Biology at a senior college. Students would then prepare for positions in biological, medical or agricultural laboratories, or for graduate and professional study. The program would articulate with the existing Bachelor of Science degree in Biotechnology at York College; additional articulations are also being developed.

The program builds on the strengths of the BMCC Department of Science, which already has full-time faculty qualified to teach in the program. With the exception of two new courses developed specifically for this program, all other courses are already regularly offered by the college. Providing a pathway to a career in an innovative and rapidly growing scientific field, this program is an attractive option for students and supports the college’s goal of increasing the ratio of under-represented populations in the STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics) disciplines.

D. CITY COLLEGE – ABOLISHMENT OF THE DEPARTMENT OF BEHAVIORAL MEDICINE ( SOPHIE DAVIS SCHOOL OF BIOMEDICAL EDUCATION):

RESOLVED, That the Department of Behavioral Medicine in the Sophie Davis School of Biomedical Education be abolished at the City College effective March 1, 2010.

EXPLANATION: Pursuant to academic and institutional planning, and in consultation with the affected faculty, City College proposes to abolish the Department of Behavioral Medicine within the Sophie Davis School of Medicine and transfer the two remaining faculty, one each to two existing departments within the Sophie Davis School of Biomedical Education.

These actions follow consultation with the individual departments and affected faculty. The abolition of the Department of Behavioral Medicine was approved by the Executive Faculty Committee of the Sophie Davis School of Medicine at a meeting duly called and held on November 23, 2009.

Because only two faculty members remained in the existing department and because the department has not demonstrated the significant growth anticipated, it was determined that the existing department is no longer viable within the Board of Trustees Bylaw that requires five (5) faculty members to constitute an academic department.

All the courses currently offered by the existing department are highly thematically aligned to, and co-directed by faculty in other academic departments within the Sophie Davis School of Biomedical Education. Thus, the abolition of the Department will allow the School to make more efficient use of associated faculty and support personnel to accomplish the School’s mission.
A separate resolution has been submitted to the Board of Trustees via the Chancellor’s University Report regarding the transfer and appointment of personnel to other departments within the School. Contingent upon approval by the Board of Trustees, two (2) remaining designated faculty members will be transferred from the abolished department of Behavioral Medicine, one to the existing Department of Physiology and Pharmacology and one to the existing Department of Community Health and Social Medicine.

NO. 6. COMMITTEE ON STUDENT AFFAIRS AND SPECIAL PROGRAMS: RESOLVED, That the following item be approved:

A. THE CITY UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK – NAMING OF THE CUNY LEADERSHIP ACADEMY IN HONOR OF VICE CHANCELLOR ERNESTO MALAVE:

RESOLVED, That The City University of New York Leadership Academy be named in honor of Vice Chancellor Ernesto Malave and hereafter be named the Ernesto Malave Leadership Academy at The City University of New York.

EXPLANATION: Ernesto Malave was a former vice chancellor for budget and finance at CUNY, including the last six years as the University’s chief financial officer, was marked by creative leadership, skillful advocacy, and genuine concern for students, colleagues, and the University.

Ernesto Malave came to CUNY first as a student at Borough of Manhattan Community College, where he became a member of the Student Senate. He was a committed student leader, serving as a member of the University Student Senate from 1979 to 1981 and as student representative to the CUNY Board of Trustees Committee on Faculty, Staff and Administration in 1979-1980. He was treasurer of BMCC’s student government and served as its president from 1980 to 1981.

His impressive record of service as a student government leader was followed by an outstanding career at CUNY that started in admissions and moved to governmental relations and, eventually, the budget office, where he served as a budget analyst, executive assistant to the vice chancellor for budget, finance and computing, budget director, and, ultimately, vice chancellor for budget and finance.

Ernesto Malave was well known throughout the University not only for his detailed knowledge of financial matters but also for the generous mentoring he provided to faculty, staff, and especially students. He participated in numerous student retreats, seminars, and workshops, patiently explaining the complexities of the University’s finances and encouraging student leadership. Ernesto Malave also served as a tireless advocate on behalf of CUNY’s students and for accessible, high-quality public higher education.

The CUNY Leadership Academy was established to offer students opportunities to develop the skills, knowledge, and experience necessary to become global leaders. The academy connects programs from across CUNY and fosters CUNY-wide leadership education programs that take advantage of the extraordinary resources of CUNY and New York City.

Given Ernesto Malave’s distinguished record of service to The City University of New York and his longtime commitment to encouraging student leadership, it is fitting that the CUNY Leadership Academy bear his name. The academy’s status as a University-wide entity, which serves students from all campuses and programs, enables the Academy to serve as a central venue for legacy opportunities, including scholarships and other student support, which may be made in honor of Ernesto Malave’s work. The University will designate an appropriate location for the academy to enhance its visibility to internal and external communities and advance its essential work to develop leaders who will serve the city, state, and nation with distinction.

Report of Student Affairs and Special Programs Committee Chair Kathleen M. Pesile:
I would like to also report that the University Student Senate approved the resolution renaming its Academic Scholarship in memory of Ernesto Malave.

Upon motions duly made, seconded and carried, the following resolution was adopted:  (Calendar No. 8)
NO. 8. BARUCH COLLEGE – DESIGNATION OF PRESIDENT:

RESOLVED, That Mitchel B. Wallerstein be designated president of Baruch College effective August 2, 2010, at a compensation to be recommended by the Chancellor to the Board, subject to financial ability.

EXPLANATION: The search committee, chaired by Trustee Peter S. Pantaleo, at the conclusion of an extensive national search, recommended three finalists for the Baruch College presidency. The Chancellor is recommending Mitchel B. Wallerstein as president. Dr. Wallerstein is currently the Dean of the Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs at Syracuse University. His previous positions include Vice President of The John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation; Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Counterproliferation Policy and Senior Representative for Trade Security Policy; Deputy Executive Officer of the National Research Council; and Executive Director, Office of International Affairs, National Academy of Sciences. Dr. Wallerstein holds Ph.D. and M.S. degrees in political science from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, an M.P.A. from the Maxwell School of Syracuse University, and an A.B. from Dartmouth College.

Statement of Dr. Mitchel Wallerstein:

I am deeply honored by the confidence that Chancellor Goldstein has shown in me by recommending my appointment to the CUNY Board of Trustees and needless to say I am equally grateful that the members of the Board have accepted his recommendation. To say that I am thrilled and excited to be offered this opportunity to lead Baruch College is something of an understatement, as who would not be excited to have the opportunity to engage in outstanding faculty and staff and wonderful students?

Indeed it is the characteristic of the students of Baruch that first drew me to this opportunity when it was presented to me. Their diversity, the range of places they come from and the determination that they have to advance themselves and their families make this a mission that I can be a passionate advocate of. They are the people who will lead this city and our country in this century. It is an honor to help educate them for this challenge. It is a daunting group, but I look forward to the opportunity to get to know all of you. Also, in the coming months to get to know the many friends and loyal alumni of Baruch College. I know that we will be working closely together to meet the many challenges that Baruch faces, indeed that the CUNY system faces, in these challenging economic times.

I have already been giving thought to the priorities and the directions that I would like to pursue during my presidency. I know that the college has many challenges but I think it also has many advantages. Certainly, its strategic location here in lower Manhattan as well as its strong international character are things that we can build on for the future and I would seek to do so. I will have much more to say on this subject, of course, after I have had the chance to do my homework, to learn about not only the Baruch community but to the CUNY system. I will look to my fellow presidents to help guide me in that process.

The challenge in the near term is to continue to conclude my business at Syracuse, to get housing here in New York and I look forward to being here in the late summer, full-time on the job. For now, let me just say that I am humbled by the task that lies before me, but I am eager to begin. Thank you, very much.

Chairperson Schmidt stated that on behalf of the Board, he would like to welcome you and your spouse, Susan Perlik. We look forward to working with you, and get to know you both better. Welcome to CUNY and New York.

Upon motion duly made, seconded and carried, the meeting was adjourned at 5:27 P.M.
