Chairperson Benno Schmidt called the meeting to order, and stated that the Board will go into Executive Session to discuss personnel matters after the conclusion of the Public meeting. The Board will then reconvene in Public Session following Executive Session. He read the following notice into the record of the meeting:

“The meetings of the Board of Trustees of The City University of New York are open to the public, and the Board welcomes the interest of those who attend. The public has ample opportunity to communicate with the Board. Public hearings on the Board’s policy calendar are scheduled one week prior to the Board’s regular meetings and members of the public who wish to communicate with the Board are invited to express their views at such public hearings.

Furthermore, the Board holds additional public hearings each year in all of the five boroughs at which members of the public may also speak. In addition, written communications to the Board are distributed to all Trustees.

The Board must carry out the functions assigned to it by law and therefore will not tolerate conduct by members of the public that disrupts its meetings. In the event of disruptions, including noise which interferes with Board discussion, after appropriate warning, the Chairman will ask the security staff to remove persons engaging in disruptive conduct.

The University may seek disciplinary and/or criminal sanctions against persons who engage in conduct that violates the University’s rules or State laws which prohibit interference with the work of public bodies.”

A. VIDEOTAPING OF BOARD MEETING: Chairperson Schmidt announced that as usual CUNY-TV is making available this important community service by transmitting the Public Session of this afternoon’s meeting of the Board of Trustees live on cable Channel 75. The meeting is also being webcast live and can be accessed by going to www.cuny.edu. The Public Session of this afternoon’s Board meeting will be available as a podcast within 24 hours and can be accessed through the CUNY website.

Chairperson Schmidt stated that he is pleased to announce that Governor Cuomo is nominating CUNY’s School of Law Professor Jenny Rivera to serve in the New York State Court of Appeals. This is a highly distinguished appointment; coupled with the significantly higher bar pass rates of 83.5%, and the opening of the new Law School facility in Long Island City this helps to let everyone know that the CUNY Law School has arrived as a major institution. Congratulations to Dean Michelle Anderson, and congratulations to all of the faculty, staff, students, and alumni of the school.

Chairperson Schmidt stated that on behalf of the Board he would like to note the recent passing of a dear friend of the CUNY Law School, and one of the original founders, former State Senate Deputy Minority Leader Emanuel Gold. We express our deepest sympathies to his family.

Chairperson Schmidt stated that he would like to extend the Board’s condolences to the family of Dr. Frank Macchiarola who passed away on December 18th at age 71, after a long illness. At the November 26, 2012 Board Meeting, Chancellor Matthew Goldstein announced the establishment of a new student scholarship in the name of Dr. Macchiarola that will be designated for an outstanding undergraduate at Baruch College in political science, government and public affairs. Dr. Macchiarola will be sorely missed.

Chairperson Schmidt stated that he would also like to extend his deepest condolences to the family of former York College President Charles Kidd, Sr., who passed away on December 10th. As the fourth president of York College, Dr. Kidd served from 1996 to 2002. He was a lifelong advocate of providing education to disadvantaged and minority youth.

Chairperson Schmidt announced that Distinguished Professor of History James Oakes has won, for the second time, the Lincoln Prize for the best book on the era of Abraham Lincoln, Freedom National: The Destruction of Slavery in the United States, 1861-1865, the 150th anniversary of the Emancipation Proclamation: Myths and...
Upon motions duly made, seconded and carried, the following resolution was adopted: (Calendar No. 9)

NO. 9. THE CITY UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK – RESOLUTION OF APPRECIATION – FACULTY CONTRIBUTIONS TO PATHWAYS INITIATIVE:

WHEREAS, In June 2011, the Board of Trustees of The City University of New York approved a resolution to create an efficient transfer system in order to enhance students’ progress toward degree completion, consistent with New York State Education Law Section 6201, which specifies that CUNY is one university and must have clear transfer paths and curricular alignment across its colleges; and

WHEREAS, The Pathways to Degree Completion initiative has been developed largely through the efforts of many hundreds of faculty from across CUNY’s colleges who have participated in several board-specified committees, including the Pathways Task Force Steering Committee, which initiated and directed the process of creating the 30-credit Common Core by establishing required credits and learning outcomes in broad disciplinary areas; the Task Force Working Committee, which served in an advisory capacity to the Steering Committee; 12 Transfer Major Committees, which are establishing the first three to six courses leading into the largest transfer majors; and the Common Core Course Review Committee and its eight subcommittees, which are reviewing courses submitted by the colleges to ensure that they meet designated learning outcomes; as well as hundreds of faculty on CUNY campuses who have worked on developing, revising, and submitting individual courses; and

WHEREAS, Since the outset of the development of the Pathways initiative, the work of the faculty has been aided by the efforts of active and committed student representatives who have provided vital input, feedback, and perspective that has beneficially informed the process and outcomes on a continuing basis; and

WHEREAS, In keeping with the faculty’s special responsibility for courses and curriculum, the many dedicated faculty participants have worked diligently and collaboratively to establish a strong, University-wide common core by clearly articulating expected student learning outcomes, ensuring rigor and high standards within all courses and disciplines, and providing mechanisms by which CUNY faculty can ascertain that the University’s academic standards are maintained; and, furthermore, have demonstrated their seriousness of intent through a transparent process that included intensive development and revision, and that reflected a commitment to providing colleges with the flexibility to maintain their distinctive identities and traditions; and

WHEREAS, The University deeply appreciates faculty members’ essential role in the historic creation of a cohesive system of general education and transfer for the nation’s largest urban public university system, and recognizes the considerable experience and expertise participating faculty continue to contribute by identifying a set of courses notable for their academic integrity and their consistency with national norms for general education, and by better defining pathways and improving progress toward degrees, thereby ensuring that students remain at the center of the University’s academic enterprise; now therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Board of Trustees of The City University of New York extends its profound gratitude to the many CUNY faculty who have been participating in Pathways committees and course development, for their outstanding service to the board and to the entire University community and their ongoing contributions to the implementation of the Pathways initiative and the academic mission of the University.

Statement of Trustee Peter S. Pantaleo:

I would like to mention that there is some substantial faculty opposition to Pathways that is ongoing. It would be disingenuous of us to not acknowledge that those faculty members—whose opposition is based on principles and concern for the quality of education—articulated their concerns in a way that made Pathways better. This resolution commends all faculty members who virtually behaved in a principled, appropriate and helpful fashion. Just as it would be disingenuous not to acknowledge that there are faculty members who are highly principled in some opposition to this. It would also be naïve to say some opposition is self-interested. There is nothing wrong with self-interest;
However, it is not as persuasive as principle. I believe that much of the opposition suffers from being a little overstated. Whether it is 5,000 names on a petition that is listed on the Professional Staff Congress (PSC) website, which when you look at it, out of 25,000 members, does not exactly indicate massive resistance but perhaps more importantly, when you look at it, people who identify themselves as from California and the like are unlikely to be on our faculty. Therefore, I do not know how many of those 5,000 names are actually faculty of the City University. I raise this because I do think that there is a division in the faculty ranks on this, and I just wanted to make it clear that I hope everyone agrees with the very simple proposition, since dissent rarely does not lead to a better product. The fact that there has been faculty dissent to Pathways is actually a healthy and good thing. I commend Chairperson Schmidt, the Chancellor, and the University Provost for dealing with this issue in a largely constructive and appropriate fashion.

E. ORAL REPORT OF THE CHANCELLOR: Chancellor Matthew Goldstein presented the following report:

Let me start by wishing all the trustees, presidents, members of the chancellory, and the entire CUNY community a healthy and productive New Year.

I would like to report that CUNY enrolled just shy of 15,000 students in our winter session programs, up about 3 percent over last year. This is the eighth year of winter sessions at CUNY, and in the first year enrollment was only 3,500. This is a way for the University to help accelerate our students' progress towards their degrees. I want to thank Senior University Dean Robert Ptachik and Senior Vice Chancellor and Secretary Jay Hershenson, who really were the drivers to convince me, along with suggestive data, that this was a very good thing for the University to do.

Last week, Governor Cuomo released the Fiscal Year 2013-2014 State Executive Budget. That budget will now be remanded to the state legislature for consideration, and hopefully some components of that budget will be enhanced. The very good news in this budget is that this is now the third year of fiscal stability for the University. This has been a wonderful time for the University in that we can plan and hire, and the presidents are able to use this stability to enhance the opportunities for students in ways that we were not able to before. With a maintenance of effort provision and a predictable tuition policy embedded into this budget, and with some slight alterations that enable us to move forward with the CUNY compact, the University will have additional revenue to hire more faculty and support staff and obtain the instrumentation and equipment that we need to be a vital University moving forward.

For the community colleges, the base aid of $2,272 per FTE student is maintained. The governor's proposal also includes $2.0 million for an initiative called the Next Generation NY Job Linkage Program that the University helped to craft to align some of our community college programs with workforce development needs.

With respect to financial aid, the executive budget does not propose any changes to the Tuition Assistance Program.

On the capital side, the executive budget recommends $8.1 million in appropriations for community college projects that have received funding from New York City. The executive budget also provides about $23 million for Superstorm Sandy disaster response and recovery. I am pleased to say that for the very first time—and we lobbied very aggressively for this—there is a CUNY2020 provision embedded into the executive budget, which provides $55 million in competitive resources to allow us to do some work on the capital side of the University. We are hoping that this challenge grant of $55 million will be replicated over the next three years.

I continue to chair the New York City Regional Economic Development Council, which will be competing for business incubator funding in the immediate period ahead. There will be a meeting in February, again to be hosted by a CUNY campus.

I also continue to serve in a leadership role on the New NY Education Reform Commission, which submitted its preliminary report to the governor and found its way into the governor's executive budget. I want to thank University Dean Joan Lucariello, who heads up our teacher education efforts in the central administration. With her guidance and knowledge in the area of teacher education, the University was able to shape some of the recommendations in a significant way, particularly for the work group dealing with teacher and principal quality. This is iteration one of further work that we will be doing with the commission's chair, Dick Parsons.

On the city side, Mayor Bloomberg is expected to issue his preliminary budget for FY2014 later this week. The University will testify at the end of this month at a New York City Council Higher Education Committee hearing on student debt. We will share with all council members a copy of “The CUNY Value,” along with prepared testimony. Vice Chancellor Frank Sanchez will lead our panel.
Through a partnership with CUNY, Graduate NYC, the NYC Department of Education, and the Options Center of Goddard Riverside, the NYC College Line website was launched earlier this month. The site assists New Yorkers in preparing for, enrolling in, and completing college by connecting them to New York City-based programs and web-based resources. The creation of the site reflects the goals of Graduate NYC, a joint venture between CUNY and the New York City Department of Education, to increase college readiness and completion among New York City students. Users of the NYC College Line site can search for a college counseling or preparation program in their neighborhood; access information, tips, and tools; and visit, join or open a forum to ask questions.

We are working aggressively on the federal side. I do not need to reinforce the reality that there are going to be perhaps significant cuts in mission agencies such as the National Science Foundation, the National Institutes of Health, the Department of Defense, and the Department of Energy. CUNY has been doing marvelous work in obtaining funds from these mission agencies, but I suspect that we are going to see some changes (not for the positive) over the next year or so. We are working with SUNY and the Commission on Independent Colleges and Universities in our lobbying efforts to try to maintain as much latitude and as many opportunities as possible for our faculty, especially given our major investments in the Decade of Science at CUNY.

We were all very proud to see our own Vice Chancellor Iris Weinshall with Senator Schumer, President Obama and the First Lady, prominently participating in a most elegant presidential inauguration in Washington, DC. New York was represented with great distinction.

I will be hosting a reception at Gracie Mansion on Thursday, February 7, to thank the many members of the CUNY community who provided essential assistance before, during, and after Hurricane Sandy to CUNY faculty and students as well as thousands of New Yorkers who needed shelter because of the storm. This event is included in the calendar of events that all of you have on the table. Again, I would like to thank the entire CUNY community, especially the presidents and their senior people on the campuses; your work during that very difficult time in New York City was truly remarkable. I would also like to thank members of the chancellery, in particular Executive Vice Chancellor and Chief Operating Officer Allan Dobrin and Vice Chancellor Frank Sanchez, among so many others, for the very good work in leading those efforts.

As you may recall, at the last board meeting I announced an exciting new initiative at the University. This initiative, which we are now calling the CUNY Student Service Corps, will provide CUNY students, both undergraduate and graduate, with paid (and in some cases, credit-bearing) positions working 10-15 hours a week on projects related to supporting the civic, economic and environmental sustainability of New York City and of its residents and communities. Planning for it is well under way, with a goal of enrolling 1,000 students in the fall. We have created an advisory committee made up of several of my senior officials and of representatives from colleges, and have named an acting director, Rachel Stephenson, who is working under the supervision of Executive Vice Chancellor and Chief Operating Officer Allan Dobrin, Senior University Dean John Mogulescu, and University Dean Suri Duitch. I will update you further as the program develops.

The Invest in CUNY “Celebrating our Partners” reception was held on Thursday, January 24, at The New York Times Center. Over 350 people attended, dominated by so many of the individuals and companies that have shown their support for CUNY over the years. We announced that thus far we have raised over $2.3 billion and are well on track to achieving our campaign goal for the University.

The Research Foundation is celebrating its 50th anniversary this year. Mayor Bloomberg proclaimed Thursday, January 24, 2013, as CUNY Research Foundation Day in the City of New York, citing the foundation as one of the city's leaders in non-profit operations and grants management services. Governor Cuomo has issued a citation celebrating the Research Foundation’s 50th anniversary and praising its work during the past half-century. I want to publicly thank Research Foundation President Richard Rothbard, who has done an exemplary job in leading this important institution.

Lastly, I would like to ask Vice Chancellor Sanchez to give a brief report on the relief activities and hard work that so many of the wonderful members of the University community have been engaged in relative to the storm.
Statement of Vice Chancellor Frank Sanchez:
The University has made good progress in responding to the students hardest hit by Hurricane Sandy. In particular, we have taken several actions to provide support for those students most struggling to stay in school. First, colleges have been asked to consider tuition waivers and other financial assistance for students affected by the storm. Over $900,000 in student emergency funding has been allocated to our colleges, and I want to especially thank the Robin Hood Foundation and the Petrie Foundation for their contributions. Many students, of course, had to miss class as a result of the storm. In response, academic departments and faculty were asked to be flexible with students as they completed course assignments and exams this past semester. CUNY students and colleges really responded in force to aid struggling communities. Over 9,000 CUNY representatives responded to the Chancellor's CUNY Works initiative, providing over 10,000 hours in service. I want to especially thank University Student Senate Chairperson and Trustee Kafui Kouakou, SGA Presidents, and the Executive Director of the Malave Leadership Academy, Kevin Tucker, for their efforts, response, and effect of care. Finally, for this spring we are anticipating a need for ongoing support for affected students. Specifically, we are expecting an increase in academic grade appeals this coming semester and have asked appeal committees to be sensitive to student circumstances associated with Sandy. Campus counselors are preparing for an increase in walk-ins as more students find it increasingly difficult to manage stress, emotions, finances, academic pressures, and in some cases, trauma associated with the storm. While the impact of student enrollments is yet to be seen, we anticipate some students may consider stopping out for a semester. We are encouraging colleges and their administrations to closely monitor enrollments and consider surveying non-returning students as to why they chose not to enroll this spring semester.

Statement of Trustee Hugo M. Morales:
I want to again congratulate President Felix Matos Rodriguez and Senior Vice Chancellor and Secretary Hershenson for raising over $150,000 for CUNY in the Heights for the Sandy storm relief.

Statement of Chancellor Matthew Goldstein:
Mr. Chairman and members of the Board, I do not know how Senior Vice Chancellor and Secretary Hershenson did this, but he has, from The New York Times, the Sunday edition, February 3, 2013, so this is a look to the future. The centerfold is a wonderful graphic of Nobel prizes that were won by students who studied at The City University of New York and, alongside them, CUNY's National Science Foundation winners. It is a wonderful statement on how the excellence and innovation of students of the past has migrated to the students of today at the University. It is a very strong statement that this University continues to change the world in very significant ways.

In response to a question from Trustee Charles A. Shorter, Chancellor Goldstein stated that the University is going to work with the Governor's office, which conceived the idea of a competitive process. Administratively, the capital grant will be remanded at the University. In addition, Empire State Development Corporation (ESDC) will be a partner with CUNY, as will the New York City Regional Economic Development Council.

Statement of University Faculty Senate Chairperson and Trustee Terrence F. Martell:
I want to thank the Chancellor for his confidence and commend his effort with regard to the very important financial stability that he has been able to achieve for this University. We are now in a position to be hiring when most are not. Timing is everything, and the opportunity to attract superior faculty is within our grasp for this particular recruiting cycle. It would not have happened without the ability to have the Compact go forward for all these years. With regard to the capital grant question, I am hoping that the capital grants go beyond the bricks and mortar. Although I have no objection to bricks and mortar, it is an opportunity to leverage successful programs in a way that really gives us a competitive advantage. I would hope that the definition of capital projects is broad enough to extend to things that CUNY does particularly well on the academic side. Lastly, I could not help but comment on that excellent summary of the disputes that have arisen with regard to Pathways. I want you to understand that my dispute is student-driven and principled and we will see where it all ends up.
Upon motions duly made, seconded and carried, the following resolutions were adopted: (Calendar Nos. 1 through 6)

NO. 1. CHANCELLOR’S UNIVERSITY REPORT: RESOLVED, That the Chancellor’s University Report for January 28, 2013 (including Addendum and Errata Items) be approved:

NO. 2. APPROVAL OF MINUTES: RESOLVED, That the minutes of the regular Board meeting and Executive Session of November 26, 2012 be approved.

NO. 3. COMMITTEE ON FISCAL AFFAIRS: RESOLVED, That the following items be approved:

A. THE CITY COLLEGE OF NEW YORK - ESTATE OF ALUMNUS CHARLES OFFIN:

RESOLVED, That the Board of Trustees of The City University of New York approve the sale of various works of art donated to The City College of New York by alumnus Charles Offin. The estimated value of the total sale is approximately One Million Two Hundred Thousand ($1,200,000.00) Dollars. The General Counsel and Senior Vice Chancellor for Legal Affairs is authorized to execute consignment agreements and any other documents necessary to effectuate the sale. All such documents shall be subject to approval as to form by the University Office of General Counsel; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Board authorize the net funds received from the sale to be transferred to and held, managed, and administered by the College and used on its behalf.

EXPLANATION: Charles Offin was a 1920 graduate of City College. He was an artist and art patron, and was art editor of The Brooklyn Eagle and editor and publisher of the magazine Pictures on Exhibit. Mr. Offin died in February 1989. In his Will, Mr. Offin left a collection of original paintings, prints, drawings, sculpture and other artwork, together with a collection of art reference and art history books, to City College. The College wishes to sell approximately 18 pieces, which represents a small portion of the collection of work donated by Mr. Offin. Due to a lack of adequate exhibition space for fine art, these artworks have not been extensively displayed or exhibited since the College took receipt of the property in 1989. The proceeds from the sale will be used to support a substantial number of arts initiatives at the College, including support for the fine arts and the performing arts.

B. THE CITY UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK - CUNY HURRICANE SANDY TUITION WAIVER:

RESOLVED, That the Board of Trustees of The City University of New York authorize college presidents to waive or defer tuition payments for the Spring 2013 semester for those students seriously impacted by Hurricane Sandy and where their economic circumstances preclude their enrollment at CUNY.

EXPLANATION: Hurricane Sandy was an extraordinary event that seriously disrupted the lives of many CUNY students and imperiled their educational aspirations. The University is sensitive to the needs of its students and is providing tuition waivers and deferments to those students whose economic situation was made so dire by the storm that they no longer have sufficient financial resources to enroll at a CUNY college for the Spring 2013 semester.

C. [ADDED ITEM] THE CITY COLLEGE OF NEW YORK - SALE OF KEITH HARING PAINTING:

RESOLVED, That the Board of Trustees of The City University of New York approve the sale of a Keith Haring original painting entitled "untitled #742". The estimated value of the painting is approximately Three Hundred Thousand ($300,000) to Five Hundred Thousand ($500,000.00) Dollars. The General Counsel is authorized to review, approve and execute consignment agreements and any other documents necessary to effectuate the sale; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Board authorize the net funds received from the sale to be transferred to and held, managed, and administered by the College and used on its behalf.
EXPLANATION: With funding managed by the Dormitory Authority of New York (DASNY) on behalf of CUNY, the Keith Haring painting was purchased in 1984 for $12,600. On January 25, 2013, the University received notification from DASNY that it has no objection to the sale of the painting. The proceeds from the sale will be used to support a substantial number of arts initiatives at the College, including support for the fine arts and the performing arts.

In response to a question from Trustee Shorter, General Counsel and Senior Vice Chancellor Frederick Schaffer stated that the college is doing two sales, one painting will be going to Sotheby's Auction house and the other painting will go to Christie's Auction house. The estimate will come from one or the other of those two.

Statement of University Faculty Senate Chairperson and Trustee Terrence F. Martell:
The University has explained that the proceeds from the sale will be used to support a substantial number of arts initiatives at City College. One would hope that we would be able to make sure that that will happen to the proceeds, because this is sometimes where you get yourself into a conundrum.

Report of Fiscal Affairs Committee Chair Joseph J. Lhota:
Following the approval of action items, there were two information items. The first was a report by Chief Investment Officer Janet Krone on the University's portfolio performance through November 30, 2012. The second was a report by University Controller Barry Kaufman on the Audit Subcommittee meeting of December 18, 2012.

Statement of President Lisa S. Coico:
I am truly thrilled that Professor Judith Stein is being recognized by this important honor today. Prof. Stein is a leading 20th Century United States historian and authority on African-American history, labor history, and United States political and economic history. She has also authored seminal essays and book reviews and has become a sought after "public intellectual" on contemporary political and economic issues for national publications and in the national media. Some of you may be familiar with her commentary on the Occupy Wall Street movement from her appearances on Bloomberg TV and quotes in The New York Times and other publications. Prof. Stein joined City College in 1965, and has long been an anchor in the Departments of History at both City College and at the Graduate School and University Center.

The outside reviewers were the leading scholars in the field of modern United States history and labor history. They include full professors at Harvard, Princeton, Stanford, the University of Pennsylvania, Columbia, and the University of Michigan, as well as leading public intellectuals. The reviewers were "uniformly enthusiastic" about her candidacy for a Distinguished Professorship. They praised Prof. Stein as "one of the best historians of the 20th century United States," an "indispensable scholar," who has "commanded respect and attention" for decades." The ad hoc committee who selected Professor Stein's outside reviewers was a distinguished group of three University Distinguished Professors. In their letter they describe Prof. Stein as "among the two or three most renowned and respected historians on the faculty of the entire City University." "No historian at CUNY is more deserving of promotion to Distinguished Professor than Judith Stein."

Of her three works, The World of Marcus Garvey: Race and Class in Modern Society in 1986, remains 25 years later “the most important study” of the leader of the largest mass movement in African-American history. Adolf Reed of the University of Pennsylvania called this work "hands down the most sophisticated and informative study ever of Garveyism and its social base." A second work, Running Steel, Running America Running America: Race, Economic Policy, and the Decline of Liberalism from1998, investigated the fate of the United States steel industry in the post-World War II era. Here, Prof. Stein studied the intersection of foreign policy and civil rights policy. As global objectives, not the blind forces of capitalism, undermined the nation's support for the steel industry, civil rights activists broke down racial barriers to hiring at precisely the moment the industry was in decline. Eric Arnesen of George Washington University called this "the single most important work on issues of race, labor, and policy in postwar America," and finally, her most recent work in 2010, Pivotal Decade: How the United States Traded Factories for Finance in the Seventies. Prof. Stein studied the economic transformations of the 1970's. Her worked carefully through many records, including the minutes of the Federal Reserve Board, to explore the role of Keynesian fiscal policy in undermining industrial growth and helping create long-term trends of economic inequality. Again this work steered past explanations of decline rooted in culture or impersonal features of globalization to trace the particular decisions that shaped the economic upheavals of the 1970s. Quickly this work attracted attention inside and outside of academia. In two symposia, scholars from history and social sciences addressed the work’s arguments and implications. Michael Kazin of Georgetown called the book a “key reference” for those who “write and speak about the roots of the current economic crisis.”

This is but a little bit of the incredible scholarship Prof. Stein has provided to City College students and CUNY graduate students. She is an outstanding teacher and educator, which, makes her the most amazing person, and I am humbled to present her to this wonderful Board.
Statement of Professor Judith Stein:
Thank you, President Coico, for your more than generous comments and I want to thank the Board. I am very humbled and very proud that you have awarded me this honor. I would also like to thank the Provost of City College, Maurizio Trevisan, who has been a supporter, and my two chairs, Gregory Downs and Andreas Killen, who initiated this project. I would like to acknowledge that when I first started teaching at City College many years ago, I believed, and I still believe that the best trained people should teach the children of the working class. But what I did not realize at the time was how the teaching here would affect me as a scholar. City College often was not, and still is not, the most ideal place to research and write but the frequent conflicts and problems at the college kept me grounded, which was very important for my work as a historian. It made me hard-headed. It inoculated me from passing intellectual fashions that afflicted those who taught at more genteel academic places. The body of work that I produced on race, economy, and politics is as much a product of my experiences here as the numerous archives that I travelled to, and for that, I am very grateful.

H. [ADDED ITEM] THE CITY UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK - CONTINUATION OF MILITARY LEAVE AND EMPLOYER-PAID HEALTH AND WELFARE BENEFITS COVERAGE FOR UNIVERSITY EMPLOYEES RECALLED FROM THE RESERVES TO ACTIVE MILITARY SERVICE:

Contribution-free health insurance coverage will end at such time as the employee's active duty is terminated or the employee returns to City University of New York employment or December 31, 2013, whichever occurs first.

4. Other Provisions

The provisions of this resolution shall not apply to those employees who have voluntarily separated from City University of New York service or who are terminated for cause. J. [ADDED ITEM] YORK COLLEGE - RED TAILS TUSKEGEE AIRMEN EXHIBIT:

RESOLVED, That the Board of Trustees of The City University of New York approve the naming of the Tuskegee Airmen Gallery at York College as the “Red Tails Tuskegee Airmen Exhibit at York College.”

EXPLANATION: The Aviation Institute at York College of The City University of New York was established in 2003 by a grant from The Port Authority of New York and New Jersey in order to promote high quality education and research for the aviation industry. In 2011, the Port Authority again provided funding in the amount of $2,000,000 for the Aviation Institute’s initiative to develop a permanent exhibit at the College dedicated to the Tuskegee Airmen.

The Tuskegee Airmen were dedicated, determined young men who enlisted to become America's first African American military airmen. From 1941-1946, approximately 1,000 enlisted members were trained at the Tuskegee Institute to be pilots, and later aircraft and engine mechanics, clerks and other support personnel, necessary to fully function as an Army Air Corp flying squadron or ground support unit. During World War II, when segregation was the rule in America, including its armed forces, these aerial pioneers battled discrimination as well as the enemy in achieving a stellar combat record as fighter pilots.

Many of the Tuskegee Airmen are from and reside in the New York Metropolitan area. Funded by The Port Authority of New York and New Jersey grant, and in recognition of the contributions of the Tuskegee Airmen and their longstanding relationship with the College, the exhibit at York College will chronicle the history of the Airmen and their contributions to the aviation industry. Therefore, York College requests that the Board approve the naming of this exhibit as the “Red Tails Tuskegee Airmen Exhibit at York College.”

A majority of members of a committee shall be present to constitute a quorum. The chair of each committee, who shall have the right to vote, shall be appointed by its members unless appointed by the Board of Directors, the Chair of the Association, or otherwise set forth in these By-laws.
