THE CITY COLLEGE OF NEW YORK

Appointment of Judith Stein as Distinguished Professor

RESOLVED, That the Board of Trustees of The City University of New York appoint Dr. Judith Stein as Distinguished Professor of History at The City College of New York effective February 1, 2013, with compensation of $28,594 per annum in addition to her regular academic salary, subject to financial ability.

EXPLANATION: Professor Stein joined the City College faculty in 1966 and she is also a member of the doctoral faculty in History at the Graduate Center. She is a renowned historian whose scholarship has shaped and enriched the vital fields of 20th century American history, labor history, African-American history, and political economy.

Professor Stein is the author of three books: The World of Marcus Garvey: Race and Class in Modern Society (Louisiana State University Press, 1986); Running Steel, Running America: Race, Economic Policy, and the Decline of Liberalism (University of North Carolina Press, 1998); and Pivotal Decade: How the United States Traded Factories for Finance in the Seventies (Yale University Press, 2010). Pivotal Decade has been the subject of scholarly discussions organized by Journal of the Historical Society and Labor History, with the latter journal naming Pivotal Decade “Best Book” of the year.

Professor Stein’s research has been supported by grants and fellowships from the National Endowment for the Humanities, the American Council of Learned Societies, and the Gerald Ford and Lyndon B. Johnson Presidential Libraries, among others. She earned her Ph.D. in American Studies from Yale.

City College and The City University of New York will be well-served by Professor Stein’s appointment as Distinguished Professor.
